VINTAGE CONDITIONS

Chile's Mediterranean climate combines the warm, dry summers and cold, rainy winters that are ideal for growing wine grapes. The country's unusual geography gives the perfect balance between cool sea breezes from the Pacific and protection from the coastal and Andes mountain ranges. Deep, well drained alluvial soils in the valleys are ideal for producing intensely flavoured grapes with fresh natural acidity.

The 2021 vintage season started well, with a mild spring after a some reasonable rains during winter. Spring was marred by a few isolated frosts but overall the crop good. Summer was also relatively mild, but was cut short by an unseasonal rainstorm at the end of January which caused significant problems of botrytis and mildew in several varieties. Those well managed vineyards with a balanced yield survived unscathed and went on to produce some superb wines. 2021 will be remembered for its fresh floral whites and beautifully mature reds with excellent colour and structure.
